THE murder of M. CHARLET and the abduction of his wife and daughter by Chinese pirates is an event that may cause serious embarrassment to the Government at Peking. The incursion of piratical bands from China into Tonkin has long been a subject of complaint with France, and this latest outrage seems likely to exhaust her patience. The French Press unanimously demands reparation for the uffair, and the Tonkin papers urge that the reparation must be sought at Peking, At one time the pirates were actively encouraged by the Chinese Authorities. In deference to French remonstrances a show of hunting them down was made, but the pirates have continued to find a safe asylum on Chinese territory. from which to make raids across the frontier at their convenience. Quite a considerable number of Europeaus have been kidnapped and held to ransom, one or two of whom are still in captivity, and many lives have been lost through the attacks on outlying posts and villages. The affair at Moncay the other day however, is of a character to strike the popular imagination more than any o the preceding ones, and the people of France May (Captain Superintendent of Police), presidwill hardly rest content until Madame CHAILLET and her little girl have been released and ample reparation made for the murder of the husband and father. We can imagine what our own feelings would be the Kwangtung Authorities encouraged or allowed the formation of piratical bands on carrying off the women and children. The situation is much the same in Tonkin. The pirates cross the frontier to hunt for women and children; who are sold in China, and loss as possible. Not content with stealing portions of the pily should be duep old by the content with stealing portions of the pily should be duep old by the content with stealing portions of the pily should be duep old by the native women and children, they have now and the event ought to, and probably will. prove the climax of their operations. France must necessarily demand reparation and security for the future. The present, however, in a most unfortunute time for Chips to have to meet such claims. She already has her handsfull with the War in the North, and if there be any truth in the assertion that France sympathises with Japan in the struggle: the Paris Government may be disposed to make the terms as heavy and galling as possible. The folly of the Chinese in permitting this guerilla warfare across. the border has been almost inconceivable. It has annoyed France without weakening her position, and China will in the end be made to pay for it.

To-day being the Chinese Feast of Linteres there will be a splendid show of lanterns and coloured silk flags in China-town to night, especially in Possession Street. For a number of. years past the Chinese bave generally used Japanese lanterns for this occasion, but now, as hostilities have broken out between China and Japan, they will, we learn, probaby not use these articles again and Chinese lanterns will be used in their stead. To day having also been appointed by the Chinese Emperor for the aid ing of two more titles to those already possessed by the Empress Downger, in honour of the occasion of Her Mojesty's slatioth birthd y which is to be celebrated on the 7th November, an exhibition of lauterus in honour of the same was already shown over the doors of many Chinese shops last night.
